

Change – a practical approach

23rd March 2009 – London

All day workshop: 9am – 5.30pm
(Includes lunch)

This intensive 1 day workshop is designed for non-change experts who are looking for practical ways to communicate and implement change more effectively.

You will come away with proven, practical techniques that will enable you to:

- Mobilise and support people more effectively through change
- Reduce the time, cost and disruption of implementation
- Improve the quality of your organisation's approach to change

This course is designed for anyone who is responsible for ensuring that change is delivered successfully – project managers, operations managers, HR professionals, communicators.

The workshop covers:

- Understanding change communications
- Designing the right approach to change
- Building readiness for change
- Understanding the impact of change
- Knowing how to monitor progress
- Reinforcing new ways of working

The session will be structured around group and individual practical exercises. Delegates will receive tools and templates that have been proven to work, which they can apply to their own change projects for immediate results.

Date:	Monday 23 rd March, 2009
Time:	9am – 5.30pm
Location:	Central London
Cost:	£695 per delegate (excl. VAT) Group discounts available – contact us for details
How to book:	Call us on 020 3059 2380 or Email info@ableandhow.com

Able and How is a consultancy focused exclusively on communication, change and people. We help global multi-nationals, governments and medium-sized businesses implement strategic change more effectively.